LEASE IS BEING DRAWN UP TODAY BY PITTSBURG BANK

Will Likely Be Signed By The Imperial Glass Company
This Afternoon.

MEETING HERE THURSDAY

If Everything Is In Readiness Business Will Be Finished.

The Second National Bank of Pittsburgh which holds the Hamilton Glass plant of Charleoi, is today having a lease prepared, which is later to be signed by the Imperial Glass Co., who are contemplating placing in operation the above plant, providing they can agree to all embodied in the lease. There will hardly be any contention on this phase of the matter, however as the Imperial company, it is understood have already practically reached an agreement with the bank people. This is in preparation for the signing up of the final articles to-morrow by the glass company and the committee of citizens of Charleoi, providing of course that the latter feels themselves in readiness to take such action, and having all matters well in hand. There is almost enough funds subscribed and the committee in charge are most hopefully awaiting the time for the conference with the officials of the company and can get down to business. All are intensely awaiting the trend of affairs at this stage and place all confidence in the committee to put through the business in a most satisfactory manner.

COMPANY WILL OPPOSE FORMING OF MORE UNIONS

Unofficially but nevertheless effectively the Pennsylvania railroad management has set its foot on efforts to build up new unions among its employers. There is no attempt to interfere in any way with the Brotherhood of Railway trainmen.

What the management aims to prevent is organization of men like freight handlers, trackmen and car inspectors. These employees, fully aware of the success of the big trainmen's, firemen's and engineers' unions in making terms with the general manager, have been encouraged to form or join other organizations. This the Pennsylvania railroad management is determined to prevent. The officials of the road believe this is a most opportune time to move in the matter, as the many men out of employment and anxious for work makes it comparatively safe for the company to take measures to hal-

While no formal orders or written instructions have been issued, W. W. Atterbury, general manager, has given his subordinate officers clearly to understand that men active in furthering new unions are not wanted in the service of the Pennsylvania railroad, and that such men are to be discharged wherever it seems desirable.

A Commendable Action.

The Donora council on Monday night at their adjourned session did a very commendable thing in the granting of the right of way to the Donora and Eldora street railway company. By this they did something which will be of a great benefit to the residents of that place, opening up a means of communication with Charleroi and other towns from Lucyville to Pittsburgh and establishing quicker service between those places thus connected.

It was talked of for a time by interested citizens of Donora that a line be established by the river route connecting with the Pittsburgh Street Railway line at Monongahela, but no doubt the route now proposed is the best for the reason that Eldora is a central location and more efficient service with other towns of importance can be rendered.

Popular Method.

Council last night determined upon an action in the matter of the license ordinance which should prove universally popular with the citizens of Charleroi. It is that those interested in the passage of such a statute, and desiring to voice their sentiments will have ample opportunity to do so on the evening of August 24th, when council convenes again, and will no doubt shove the matter through. In the meantime, the ordinance will be left in the borough clerk's hands where all may see and note what licenses are proposed, and how assessments are to be made.

There has been a half way method employed for years in the licensing of teams, slot machines, etc., and numerous are the occasions that the city fathers have worked their brains
over time in an effort to get the affair straightened out and have an ordinance governing this phase which would please everyone; one covering all matters, instead of several statutes, which takes so much time and worry on the part of the license clerk.

Among the Exchanges

Still a Mystery.

The fate of the eight young cadets at West Point who were convicted of hazing a few weeks ago is still involved in mystery. It will be remembered that the country was told the sentence of expulsion imposed by the act of congress had been pronounced by the proper authorities and approved by president. Then it was said that the young men had been restored to their classes. Finally the president sent out another authorized statement, this time to the effect that he had taken no action in the matter yet.

To the ordinary layman the matter settles itself. The law forbids hazing. This act was approved by President Roosevelt himself. The penalty provided for deliberate violation of the law is expulsion. As we understand, there is no middle course. We do not believe the president has the right to set aside the act of congress, no matter what may be his convictions concerning this particular case. He might have vetoed it when it reached him in due course, but having signed it, it seems to us that he is as much bound by its requirements as any other citizen. —Altoona

SHORT FUSE, NO TIME TO ESCAPE SERIOUSLY HURT

Otavo Marino, a Slav was taken to the Monongahela Hospital yesterday afternoon suffering from injuries received in an explosion. Marino was digging a cistern on Meadow avenue and coming to a rock put in a blast.
He had nothing but a very short fuse.
After lighting this he was unable to escape before it went off and consequently suffered injuries.

J. V. THOMPSON ON BRISKNESS OF TRADE

There is a decided and universal upward trend to the trade of the country, now here in evidence, any more than this section. This has been the general opinion of many observing people for some time and yesterday J. V.
Thompson the wealthy coal dealer of Fayette county declared himself of the same conviction.

Mr. Thompson is in a position to judge carefully of these matters and he supports his opinion by citing facts.

Money is much easier the quotation,
for call money in New York being out 1 per cent. This has caused money to flow back into the smaller cities and there has been a quickening in the land market. Mr. Thompson reports that a coal company in the old Connellsville field has recently succeeded in floating a loan of $150,000, which will be expended in improvements.

In addition to these evidences, it is reliably stated that inquiries for coal properties have been very lively for the past month or so. Mr. Thompson believes that this is an indication that the people of the country are confident of the growing brightness of the situation and are taking early steps to get their money into good propositions at the best figures obtainable.

GAYNESS AT WEDDING OF INTOXICATED MAN ENDS IN FINE FOR HIM

For getting unusually gay at a wedding on Tenth street Monday night a Slav with a unique name was last night brought before the burgess and fined $15 and costs. He was going to clean out the ranch but was stopped.

Should Work Together.

All the investigating of mine explosions that can be accomplished in the next ten years isn't going to make the miners any less careless. With proper working precautions and men and employer working together there is no reason why coal mining should not be as free from loss of life as any other similar occupation. But when the men leave doors open, or smoke in a mine known to be gaseous,
or deliberately run into electric wires,
or a hundred other things such as
that, what else can be expected?

THE BEER STEIN VS-THE COFFEE POT

Tea and coffee are positively injurious, causing wakefulness and deranging the nervous system.

Besides they ruin the complexion, giving it an unhealthy and yellowish cast.

CHARLEROI BEER

used at mealtime and in moderation gives tone to the entire body and helps keep it free from impurities.

People who drink CHARLEROI BEER regularly are full-blooded and healthy.

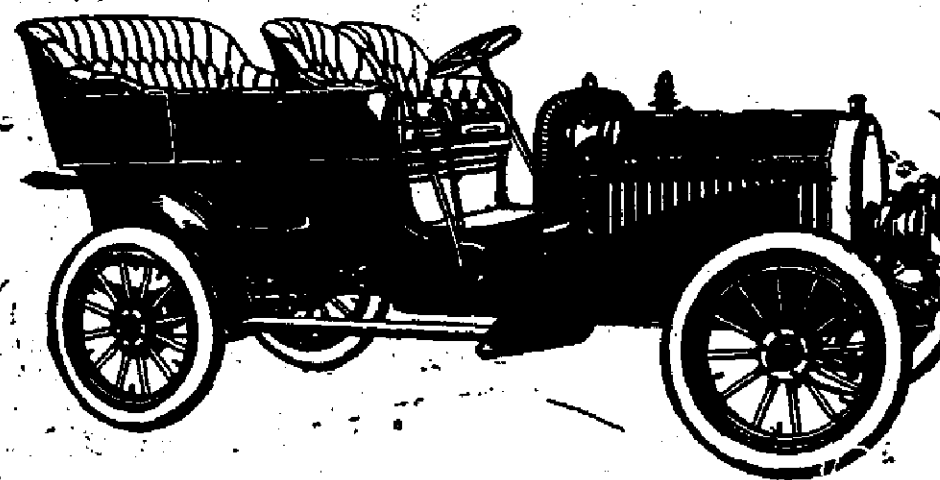

It's an energy-maker of the first order, a true food beverage.

Brings health and physical tone.

CHARLEROI PA

Nan's Experiment.

By CECILY ALLEN.

Copyrighted, 1904, by Associated Literary Press.

"The foundations of our social system are rotten to the core!" announced Nan, leaning forward in the great wicker chair to watch the progress of the little Italian across the velvety lawn.

Her brother Bob sank even more deeply in his own cushioned chair and studied the smoke curling upward from the tip of his very good cigar.

"I told Uncle Henry this would be the inevitable result of sending you to a western co-ed college. The social system here is quite good enough for me."

Nan's broad forehead was puckered in a thoughtful frown.

"Now, take that young Italian foreman of yours, for instance! What puts him in a different class from you? The fact that his father had not enough money to feed his big family and our father had too much money for the good of his two children."

"Really," remarked Bob, with eyes dancing, "I never noticed any complaints from you about superfluity of cash."

"Give that man a Fifth avenue tailor, a valet and a motor car and he would pass muster in our set shoulder to shoulder with you."

"I don't know about that," pursued Bob. "He might eat with his knife!"

"Not after he had been told it was wrong," said Nan, with conviction.

"Suppose he were wearing corduroy for shooting instead of digging excavations. Suppose he were wearing shirt sleeves on a tennis court or the links instead of in your employ. He would be a gentleman, one of your equals. He would look not a whit different from what he does today, but we would accept him socially where today we regard him as our inferior."

Bob cast amused glances at a corner in the porch roof where two birds were busily building a nest among the vines. "And this is the modern woman—the effect of the higher education," he murmured.

It might have been the birds, cooling and contented, or it might have just been the love of mischief which some men never outgrow even when, like Robert Darnton, they can count iron gray hairs by the score above each temple. At any rate, he sat up very suddenly and determinedly and regarded his sister quite seriously.

"Have you the courage of your convictions? Are you willing to put your theory to the test? Will you let me invite my foreman here as an equal, provided, of course, that I secure the stipulated Fifth avenue tailoring, the 'man' and the motor?"

"Good gracious, Bob, you move so suddenly!" suggested Nan.

"No time like the present, and I insist that any one who attacks our social system should prove its rottenness when she has the opportunity. I will invite my foreman here as a guest. I will agree that he is properly coached for his part (it would not be fair to turn him loose on our unsuspecting guests without some training), and then I will wager you a diamond sunburst against a crocheted tie that you ask me to put him out of the house before the week is up."

Nan's glance traveled once more across the expanse of green lawn. The little figure of the Italian was just disappearing behind a clump of shrubbery. Well, in appearance, at least, he could do the house of Darnton no discredit. Anyhow, why should a girl who was planning settlement work for the fall shrink at the thought of having one "case" in her home for a few days? She would have to live among them—in the fall!

"Well?" inquired Bob, watching her lovely, changeable expression with appreciative eyes.

"Let him come!" she answered, with assumed nonchalance and—there was no denying it—something of pleasure that she was to meet again the glance of the Italian's wondrous brown eyes. Standing on the lower step of the porch, he had looked a veritable young god. "Only you are not to tell him that the idea, the theory, is mine."

So did Vincenzo Pantozzi join the innermost circle of the social set graced by the Darntons—came also a rakish yellow racer of foreign make, a man versed in all the mysteries of the tailoring world, and a wardrobe which was a credit at least to Bob Darnton's generosity.

On one point Vincenzo stood firm. He must be permitted to leave the house every morning in time to join his workmen who were building the marvelous Italian garden at the lower end of the estate. If the fair chateleine often shared his early breakfast, her zeal as a sociological student was to her command.

Barring a few times when Vincenzo gripped the wrong table utensil in his nervousness or dropped his spoon or fork, he did very well at table, and there was no need of dread on the part of his hostess when the elaborate week-end dinner was scheduled.

"It is marvelous what imitative creatures we all are," she observed mentally, one morning. She had ordered the early breakfast served on the side porch, and the scent of honeysuckle was all over.

And then Vincenzo, looking up, caught something—he did not know just what—in her calm gray eyes and promptly, gracefully, to speed a quiet business of eating.

Every night Vincenzo came in from the embryonic Italian gardens to be shaved and dressed by the stolid Englishman provided by his host.

If there were no guests for the evening Bob went a-calling on his neighbors and the fair chateleine found herself spinning in the moonlight beside the pseudo owner of the rakish yellow car, who was taking to luxury and the social career as a duck takes to water.

To be sure, Bob suggested rather heartlessly that the week end party had best be postponed. It is one thing to conduct a social experiment, he remarked, and another to explain it when the experimenter was a charming young woman. And the experimented one—well, there was no use talking! Vincenzo had proved no slouch!

And on the evening of the sixth day Bob came home from the city late. Dinner had been served. The porch was deserted.

No, Miss Darnton and Mr. Pantozzi were not out motoring. The gentleman (what nice shades of meaning a stolid faced servant can put into a simple phrase) had gone away in his car alone and Miss Darnton was in her room, quite ill with a headache.

Headache notwithstanding, she burst into her brother's study directly the servant had gone back to the rear of the house. Her face was quite pale. Her eyes shone with unnatural brilliancy from the center of dark circles.

"I've come to acknowledge my defeat, Bob," she said bitterly. "I'll start your tie in the morning, and I wish you would see that Vin—Mr. Pantozzi leaves the house before I start the tie."

"Whew!" gasped Bob. "What has he done? Eaten peas with a spoon or demanded macaroni uncut?"

Nan leaned wearily against a chair and her mouth drooped.

"It has been a dreadful mistake, Bob. Don't joke about it, dear. Vincenzo—tonight—he has fallen in love with me!"

Bob leaned back in his chair and laughed heartlessly.

"Which goes to show," he gasped between paroxysms, "that your theory is entirely correct. He fell right into our life, our ways. He is one of us. I don't know a heart free man in our crowd who would not fall in love with you—if he had the opportunities of seeing you in your most charming, womanly moods, as poor Pantozzi has. Don't blame him for that! It's a bad theorist who won't accept the results of her own experiments."

"I didn't think you would take it like this, Bob. I thought the honor of the family!"

Bob bit his lip.

"Did he say anything that reflected on the Darnton honor?"

"No-o. He was lovely, but a bit hysterical. He said—well, you know what they all say—that I was the one woman—that he was unworthy of me—that he would not have placed me in such a false position—but he should love me always—and then he jumped into his car—your car, I mean—and went down the drive like mad."

"He didn't happen to say that he thought it a shame for a pretty girl to lose by trickery the best sunburst Tiffany could put up, did he?"

"Bob," gasped his sister, leaning heavily against the table, "did he know?"

"Everything, my dear! Vincenzo is a chap I met in Paris, the younger son of an old Roman family who have nothing but chapels and marbles and paintings which the state will not permit them to sell, and Vincenzo was studying architecture with the laudable intention of earning a fortune to keep the confounded chapels and relics in the family. I gave him his first commission, and he has retaliated by demanding the hand of my only sister. That's gratitude for you! I'll send him packing in the morning," said Bob, with assumed fierceness. Then suddenly a figure all in white nestled against his broad shoulder; a slim arm crept around his neck.

"I'd—I'd rather you wouldn't, Bob. I need a new sunburst worse than anything else in the world, except—"

"A glimpse of Pantozzi's face at this minute—and there's his car!"

Artemus Ward's Accomplishment.

On the occasion of Artemus Ward's professional visit to London, which occurred not long before his death, J. E. Preston Muddock says in his book, "Pages From an Adventurous Life," that the American humorist's advertisements of his "show" were as full of funny surprises as the lectures themselves. One that tickled the general public was this:

Artemus Ward delivered Lectures Before All the Crowned Heads of Europe over thought of delivering lectures.

And an excerpt from his lecture on "Drawing" is quoted by Mr. Muddock as a particularly delightful bit.

"At a very tender age I could draw on wood. When a mere child I once drew a small cart load of raw turnips over a wooden bridge. It was a raw morning. The people of the village recognized me. They said it was a raw turnip drawing. That shows how faithfully I had copied nature. I drew their attention to it, so you see there was a lot of drawing in it."

"The villagers, with the wonderful discernment peculiar to villagers, said I had a future before me. As I was walking backward when I made my drawing, I replied that I thought my future must be behind me."

Make Report.

R. J. McCreery, Frank Rodgers and T. B. Craig, viewers appointed on a bridge over Hunter's fork of Wheeling creek on the line between Washington and Greene counties, have filed their report, stating that in their opinion the bridge is necessary, and that the expense of erecting one would be attended with more expense than it is reasonable that the adjoining townships should bear.

The location selected is where the public highway leading from Ackleys and Majorsville crosses the creek on the land of J. C. McKeefrian in West Finley township, Washington county, and land of Newton Dreamer in Rich-hill township, Greene county. A plot of the location which shows the change in the public highway deemed necessary to make the proper approach is attached.

Trivial Cause of a Bloody War.

In the year 1654 a Polish nobleman became obnoxious to the laws of his country by reason of his having committed a crime. He fled to Sweden. whereupon John Casimir, king of Poland, wrote to Charles Gustavus, king of Sweden, demanding the surrender of the criminal. The king of Sweden on reading the dispatch noticed that his own name and titles were followed by two "et ceteras," while the name of the king of Poland was followed by three. "The missing 'et cetera' so enraged the king of Sweden that he at once declared war against Poland.
The war was carried on with great bitterness until 1660, when a peace was signed at Oliva, near Danzig. A contemporary writer (Kochowsky) poured out his lamentations on the war in these terms: "How dear has this 'et cetera' been to us! With how many lives have these two potentates paid for these missing eight letters! With what streams of blood has the failure of a few drops of ink been avenged!"

A Horse's Toe Nails.

Few persons realize that a horse's hoof is really the same thing as the toe nails of human beings or of animals having toes. The horn of a hoof grows just as a toe nail does. The hoof grows more rapidly in unshod horses than in those wearing shoes, and it grows faster in horses which are well groomed and well fed. But on an average the horn grows about a third of an inch a month. Hind hoofs grow faster than fore hoofs. The toe of the hoof being the longest part, it takes longer for the horn to grow down there than at the heel. For instance, the toe will grow entirely down in from eleven to thirteen months, while the heel will grow down in from three to five months. As the new horn grows out any cracks or defects in the old gradually work down to where they can be cut off, just as with human finger nails you can watch the progress of a bruise from the roof to the tip.

ORDINANCE HELD OVER FOR EXAMINATION BY PEOPLE

Citizens Will Be Given Opportunity to Speak Concerning Various Licenses.

BURGESS' REPORT READ

Council Holds Lengthy Session Featured By Much Business.

Council met last night as per schedule, although two members were not present. According to the new regulation those will be required to account for their absence at the next session. The most important matter to be taken up was the license ordinance, which has been awaiting action for some time. This was framed by the ordinance committee some time ago, passed first reading and was referred back to that body for such additions and corrections as were deemed necessary. Nothing had been done on the matter up to last night. It seems there has been a little contention concerning separate parts of it and the committee had not got together on the matter. Last night the two councilmen absent were members of the ordinance committee, one being the chairman. The ordinance had been returned to the council chamber, however, and the one member of the committee who was present made a minority report, although it had not been changed in the least since the last time it was before council several weeks ago. The report was accepted and then with the idea of getting the thoughts of the people on the matter, a motion was made to leave the paper in the borough clerk's office where it might be examined by the people and then returned. An hour and a half was spent in the discussion of the ordinance. The ordinance committee had been at a previous meeting without delay accepted. The ordinance was not during the month of July. The ordinance had been made and the ordinance committee had been at a previous meeting without delay accepted. The ordinance was not during the month of July. The ordinance had been made and the ordinance committee had been at a previous meeting without delay accepted.

TRUE BILL IS FOUND AGAINST W. R. RIDER

Young Man Charged With Horse Stealing Must Face Judge.

OTHER COURT BRIEFS

True bills were found by the grand jury yesterday in the cases against W. R. Rider, the young man of the eastern section of the county, charged with horse stealing, carrying concealed weapons and falsely impersonating an officer. The private prosecutor is W. H. Riddle of Charleroi and the case comes from Bentleyville. The facts of the case are about these: Rider, it is alleged, went to a livery stable in Bentleyville and hired a horse. He went away but did not return with the rig. Later the liveryman received a letter, the sender informing him that he was where the rig was, that he was an officer and would be able to get the rig. The outcome was that Rider was arrested, was identified as the man who got the horse and when arrested he was impersonating an officer and had on his possession a revolver.

A true bill was found in the case against Ernest Hundermark, of near California, who is charged with selling liquor without license, to miners on Sunday and keeping a disorderly house. Hundermark's place was raided and the prosecution followed. Three pleas were arranged before the court for sentence as follows: Gus Dehainant, of Charleroi, charged with desertion and non-support by his wife, Amelia Dehainant, was ordered to pay her $3.50 a week and give bond for the faithful compliance with the order.

Samuel Lavata, of Westland, who was returned by Constable Ralph Acklin for selling liquor without license, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and three months to jail at labor.

J. H. Harsha, an employee of the Singer Sewing Machine company in Washington, charged with embezzlement of $32 was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and 60 days to jail.

Clerks Wanted.

Wanted—Twenty experienced clerks at once. Only thoroughly experienced persons with references need apply. Apply at Kirk and Clark's store before 9 a. m. Thursday. 3122

This was accepted. J. M. Fleming was present and asked permission to drill a well in the alley in the rear of his building on Fallowfield avenue near Fifth street. The matter was placed in the hands of the street committee with power to act.

Garbage Collector Thomas Younger was present with a complaint, saying that others besides himself had been hauling garbage and he did not think it right. This was referred to the garbage committee with power to act.

The clerk was notified to advertise for bids to be in by August 24 for the furnishing of 10,000 feet of oak plank.

DRUMM'S BUNCH TAKE TWO GAMES FROM CHARLEROI

Cherubs Secured Lead At First In Both But Are Beaten Out.

GOOD, CLEAN CONTESTS

With a patched up team the locals and Charleroi indulged in a double header yesterday afternoon, both games going to the Drummers.

The first game belonged to Charleroi until the last inning when enough runs were scored by the Drummers to win. The game was a close one, the Drummers working on the batting station for Charleroi and allowing but four scattered hits until the last inning. In this round Dawson singled and was sacrificed to second by McKenna. Clark followed with a single and Gribbin hit for two bases, sending in two runs. The run secured by Charleroi came as a gift in the third round. With one down Osborne drove one to McCoomb's who threw bad to first, the ball rolling to the score board. While the Charleroi out was trying to reveal its hiding place in the tall weeds Osborne chased around the bases. Score:

In the second contest Wilson and Bert Humphries were pitted against each other. Wilson was all to the merry allowing but four scattered hits for one run. Bert was touched up for a total of nine bingles, three of which were for extra cushions. Charleroi also scored first in this contest, marking one in the third. Osborne, who was filling in at middle field, hit for three bases. An attempt was made to catch him at the plate on Toohy's drive but the play was slow and Arch counted. Clarksburg got their first one in the fifth inning on a three base hit and an error. The next one was marked up in the eighth on a double by Clark and a single by Conaway. P. R. R. Company Finds Monongahela Division Pays Well.

HAS A LENGTHY SYSTEM

After several years of hard work the Pennsylvania Railroad Company yesterday rested from its labor of hunting up original stockholders of the Pittsburgh, Virginia and Charleroi, now the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania to force dividends upon them or buy up their shares at about three times their par value. There were few people holding shares of this division who realized their value until recently. There have been many things lately to attract attention to the Pittsburgh, Virginia and Charleroi. Only recently it has been built and put in operation a seven mile branch from Ellsworth to Marianna, the new coal town of the Pittsburgh and Buffalo company, and it has also extended its main line from West Brownsville to Rices Landing, a distance of nine miles. The company's charter allowed it to build into West Virginia as far as Charleston, but this was never undertaken by the corporation. Joseph Walton, one of the leading coal men of his time, was among the promoters and incorporators of this line.

The line was originally incorporated April 3, 1897, as the Monongahela Valley Railroad Company. It was designated that its capital should not exceed $320,000 a mile. The road was to extend from Pittsburgh to near Rices Landing, in Greene county, and was to run thence to Waynesburg, the charter allowing extensions to the coal fields of the district, such extensions, however, not to exceed 10 miles.

It was extended to Homestead in 1872, to Dravosburg, Hilldale and Monongahela City in 1878, to Lock No 4 and Belle Vernon in 1880, to West Brownsville in 1881 and to Redstone Junction in 1882.

The road was merged with the Pennsylvania system in April, 1905. Its main line from Pittsburgh to Rices Landing, is 65.4 miles long, and it has 11 branches with an aggregate mileage of 60.3. In track-mileage, over the division has a total of 380 miles.

BLANKET BALLOT USED THIS FALL

The ballot to be voted at the November election in Washington county will be a veritable blanket sheet. It will be 22 inches long and 26 1-2 inches in width. There will be eight party columns on the ballot as follows: Republicans, Democrat, Prohibition, Socialist, Labor, Independence, Populist and Majority party Rule each having a presidential ticket. There will also be blank columns for those wishing to vote for persons other than the candidates named by using stickers or writing either names in the blank space provided. There will be 340 names printed on the ballot.

The printing of the ballots will require a stack of paper. About 50,000 regular ballots will be required for the 133 precincts in the county, and about 18,000 specimen ballots.

STATEMENT WAS WRONG SAY THE EXCURSIONISTS

Members Of Lodge Say Fight Occurred Before Boat Arrived.

COMMUNICATION WRITTEN

The Mail yesterday made a statement concerning a disgraceful scene at the Monongahela wharf on the preceding day when two colored women entered into combat, one being arrested. It seems however that the Mail was misinformed of some of the important details and today the lodge which was holding an excursion, that day from Brownsville, and from whose party the combatants were stated to have recently departed, make a statement which we most readily print to straighten out matters and put the G. U. O. of O. F. lodge in the correct light. It follows:

Editor Mail:—The G. U. O. of O. F. on the tenth of August ran an excursion from Brownsville down the river. We could not start at 8 o'clock owing to the dense fog, but put out from Brownsville at 1 o'clock p. m., arriving at Monongahela at 4 o'clock. As we landed the news was conveyed to us that there had been a fight among people on the shore there, but not our party. We had no fight from start to finish. We request the Monongahela papers to correct the mistake as there is always a right and wrong side to things.

We have proof of our statement from the captain and his crew and from sober citizens of Brownsville as well as the committee and others.

LOCAL BOYS LEAVE FOR WEST TO PLAY LONG ENGAGEMENT

This morning William Albright, known as "The Great Vandergold," and his assistant, Emil Velleitay known as "Ramo," left for Marietta, Wis., where they will play their first engagement with a company with which they are signed for the remainder of the summer and winter. Young Albright will produce his handcuff and jail breaking act, beside his various others tricks in conjunction such as escaping from a milk can from the strait jacket and from a large box. He opens up in a summer park, and after spending a few weeks in that section will go south where he will play during the winter, not likely arriving home until next summer.

Will Likely Be Signed By The Imperial Glass Company This Afternoon.

MEETING HERE THURSDAY

Everything Is In Readiness

Business Will Be Finished.

The Second National Bank of Pittsburgh which holds the Hamilton Glass plant of Charleroi, is today having a lease prepared, which is later to be signed by the Imperial Glass Co., who are contemplating placing in operation the above plant, providing they can agree to all embodied in the lease. There will hardly be any contention or this phase of the matter, however as the Imperial company, it is understood have already practically reached an agreement with the bank people. This is in preparation for the signing up of the final articles tomorrow by the glass company and the committee of citizens of Charleroi, providing of course that the latter feels themselves in readiness to take such action, and having all matters well in hand. There is almost enough funds subscribed and the committee in charge are most hopefully awaiting the time for the conference with the officials of the company and can get down to business. All are intensely awaiting the trend of affairs at this stage and place all confidence in the committee to put through the business in a most satisfactory manner.

Unofficially but nevertheless effectively the Pennsylvania railroad management has set its foot on efforts to build up new unions among its employees. There is no attempt to interfere in any way with the Brotherhood of Railway trainmen.

What the management aims to prevent is organization of men like freight handlers, trackmen and car inspectors. These employees, fully aware of the success of the big trainmen's, firemen's and engineers' unions in making terms with the general manager, have been encouraged to form or join other organizations. This the Pennsylvania railroad management is determined to prevent. The officials of the road believe this is a most opportune time to move in the matter, as the many men out of employment and anxious for work makes it comparatively safe for the company to take measures to halt organization.

While no formal orders or written instructions have been issued, W. W. Atterbury, general manager, has given his subordinate officers clearly to understand that men active in furthering new unions are not wanted in the service of the Pennsylvania railroad, and that such men are to be discharged wherever it seems desirable.

A Commendable Action.

The Donora council on Monday
night at their adjourned session did
a very commendable thing in the granting of the right of way to the Donora and Eldora street railway company. By this they did something which will be of a great benefit to the residents of that place, opening up a means of communication with Char-
leroi and other towns from Lucyville to Pittsburg and establishing quicker service between those places thus connected.

It was talked of for a time by interested citizens of Donora that a
line be established by the river route connecting with the Pittsburg Street Railways line at Monongahela, but no doubt the route now proposed is the best for the reason that Eldora is a central location and more efficient service with other towns of importance can be rendered.

Popular Method.

Council last night determined upon
an action in the matter of the license
ordinance which should prove universally popular with the citizens of Charleroi. It is that those interested in the passage of such a statute, and
desiring to voice their sentiments will
have ample opportunity to do so on the evening of August 24th, when
council convenes again, and will no doubt shove the matter through. In
left in the borough clerk's hands where
all may see and note what licenses
are proposed, and how assessments
are to be made.
There has been a half way method
employed for years in the licensing
of teams, slot machines, etc., and
numerous are the occasions that the city fathers have worked their brains
overtime in an effort to get the affair
straightened out and have an ordinance governing this phase which
would please everyone; one covering
all matters, instead of several
and worry on the part of the license
clerk.

Among the Exchanges

Still a Mystery.

The fate of the eight young convicts at West Point who were convicted of hazing a few weeks ago is still involved in mystery. It will be remembered that the country was told
the sentence of expulsion imposed by the act of congress had been pronounced by the proper authorities and approved by president. Then it was
restored to their classes. Finally the president sent out another authorized
statement, this time to the effect that he had taken no action in the matter
yet.

To the ordinary layman the matter
settles itself. The law forbids haz-
ing. This act was approved by President Roosevelt himself. The penalty provided for deliberate violation of the law is expulsion. As we understand, there is no middle course. We do not believe the president has the right to set aside the act of congress, no matter what may be his convictions concerning this particular case. It might have been noted that it reached him in due course, but having signed it, it seems to us that he is as much bound by its requirements as any other citizen. —Altoona

He had nothing but a very short fuse.
After lighting this he was unable to sequently suffered injuries.

J. V. THOMPSON ON BRISKNESS OF TRADE

There is a decided and universal upward trend to the trade of the country,
now here in evidence any more than
this section. This has been the general opinion of many observing people
for some time and yesterday J. V.
Thompson the wealthy coal dealer of Fayette county declared himself of the same conviction.

Mr. Thompson is in a position to judge carefully of these matters and
he supports his opinion by citing facts.
Money is much easier the quotation,
for call money in New York being out 1 per cent. This has caused money to flow back into the smaller cities and
market. Mr. Thompson reports that a coal company in the old Connellsville field has recently succeeded in floating
a loan of $200,000, which will be expended in improvements.

In addition to these evidences, it is
reliably stated that inquiries for coal properties have been very lively for the past month or so. Mr. Thompson believes that this is an indication that
the people of the country are confident
of the growing brightness of the situation and are taking early steps to get their money into good propositions
at the best figures obtainable.

GAYNESS AT WEDDING OF INTOXICATED MAN ENDS IN FINE FOR HIM

Should Work Together.

All the investigating of mine explosions that can be accomplished in
the next ten years isn't going to make the miners any less careless. With proper working precautions and men
and employer working together there
is no reason why coal mining should
not be as free from loss of life as
any other similar occupation. But when the men leave doors open, or
smoke in a mine known to be gaseous,
or deliberately run into electric wires,
or a hundred other things such as
that, what else can be expected?

CASE AFTER CASE

Plenty More Like This in Charleroi.

Scores of Charleroi people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

Mrs. John Huisz, 426 Sandy Ave., Charleroi, Pa., says: "My husband's work requires him to stand in a stooping position a good part of the time, and I believe this constant bending over is what weakened his kidneys. He complained of backache and severe pain in his loins. The action of the kidneys was irregular, and at times he would be stiff and lame all through his body. He began using Doan's Kidney Pills, which he procured at Piper Bros. Drug Store, and he improved from the first. A short use of this remedy drove the attack away. He has used Doan's Kidney Pills on one or two occasions since that time for backache, and the results have been just as satisfactory as they were in the first instance, and he is a great advocate of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Family Secrets.

A father complains that his little six-year-old girl is too talkative. He says: "The worst of it is when we have visitors she is continually making mistakes of the worst sort, mistakes that tend to rattle the dry bones of the family skeleton in the cupboard. Recently she allowed her tongue to run away with her, as usual, the result of which was that she very much embarrassed both her father and mother, although the guests seemed delighted.

I had a very serious talk with her and impressed upon her, or tried to, that she must not tell any family secret. The next time we had company she was permitted to come to the table only by promising that she wouldn't utter a word.
She behaved beautifully and had nothing to say until the dessert was about to be taken away. Then her lips began to quiver, and finally she burst into tears.

"Why, what's the matter, darling?" her mother asked.
"I—I want some more ice cream. If that isn't a family secret," she wailed between sobs.—London Telegraph.

An Unexpected Burns Lecture.

John Augustus O'Shea used to be in considerable request as a lecturer on his military experiences. Once, at Dumfries, he came upon the platform wearing in his buttonhole a daisy, which he quietly removed and held up.
"Ladies and gentlemen," he began,
"I hold in my hand a 'wee modest flower' I plucked this evening from the grave of Robert Burns." The audience was interested and became in-trilled as the lecturer went on to speak of the national poet. Then, suddenly recollecting that Burns had nothing to do with his subject, he stopped abruptly. "And now," said Mr. O'Shea, "I will proceed to relate my experiences in the war."
But by this time he had thoroughly engaged the sympathies of his hearers, who would not hear of another subject. "Never mind the war, sir," they roared; "give us Robert Burns!" And he did. This extempore oration afterward became one of the most popular of Mr. O'Shea's lectures.

Lord Penzance's Acquaintance.

When the late Lord Penzance was plain Mr. Wilde, he once took an early morning stroll round Covent Garden market. There he entered into conversation with an old man of genial aspect who had just made a purchase of a geranium. Mr. Wilde soon found that the stranger was an enthusiastic amateur gardener, and the pair had an interesting chat on horticultural topics as they walked toward Oxford street.

Nan's Experiment.

Copyrighted, 1905, by Associated Literary Press.

"The foundations of our social system are rotten to the core!" announced Nan, leaning forward in the great wicker chair to watch the progress of the little Italian across the velvety lawn.

Her brother Bob sank even more deeply in his own cushioned chair and studied the smoke curling upward from the tip of his very good cigar.

"I told Uncle Henry this would be the inevitable result of sending you to a western co-ed college. The social system here is quite good enough for me."

Nan's broad forehead was puckered in a thoughtful frown.

"Now, take that young Italian foreman of yours, for instance! What puts him in a different class from you? The fact that his father had not enough money to feed his big family and your father had too much money for the good of his two children?"

"Really," remarked Bob, with eyes dancing, "I never noticed any complaints from you about superfluity of cash."

"Give that man a Fifth avenue tailor, a valet and a motor car and he would pass muster in our set should he to shouder with you."

"I don't know about that," pursued Bob. "He might cut with his knife!"

"Not after he had been told it was wrong," said Nan, with conviction. "Suppose he were wearing corduroy for shouder instead of digging excavations. Suppose he were wearing shirt sleeves on a tennis court or the links instead of in your employ. He would be a gentleman, one of your equals. He would look not a whit different from what he does today, but we would accept him socially where today we regard him as our inferior."

Bob cast amused glances at a corner in the porch roof where two birds were busily building a nest among the vines. "And this is the modern woman—the effect of the higher education," he murmured.

It might have been the birds, cooling and contented, or it might have just been the force of mischief which some men never outgrow even when, like Robert Darnton, they can count iron gray hairs by the score above each temple. At any rate, he sat up very suddenly and determinedly and regarded his sister quite seriously.

"Have you the courage of your convictions? Are you willing to put your theory to the test? Will you let me invite my foreman here as an equal, provided, of course, that I secure the stipulated Fifth avenue tailoring, the 'man' and the motor?"

"Good gracious, Bob, you move so suddenly!" suggested Nan.

"No time like the present, and I insist that any one who attacks our social system should prove its rottenness when she has the opportunity. I will invite my foreman here as a guest. I will agree that he is properly coached for his part (it would not be fair to turn him loose on our unsuspecting guests without some training), and then I will suggest that a diamond sunburst against a crested tile that you ask me to put him out of the house before the week is up."

Nan's glance traveled once more across the expanse of green lawn. The little figure of the Italian was just disappearing behind a clump of shrubbery. Well, in appearance, at least, he could do the house of Darnton no discredit. Anyhow, why should a girl who was planning settlement work for the fall shrink at the thought of having one "case" in her home for a few days? She would have to live among them—in the fall!

"Well?" inquired Bob, watching her lovely, changeable expression with appreciative eyes.

"Let him come!" she answered, with assumed nonchalance—and there was no denying it—something of pleasure that she was to meet again the glance of the Italian's wondrous brown eyes. Standing on the lower step of the porch, he had looked a veritable young god. "Only you are not to tell him that the idea, the theory, is mine."

So did Vincenzo Pantozzi join the innermost circle of the social set graced by the Darntons—came also a rakish yellow racer of foreign make, a man versed in all the mysteries of the tailoring world, and a wardrobe which was a credit at least to Bob Darnton's generosity.

On one point Vincenzo stood firm. He must be permitted to leave the house every morning in time to join his workmen who were building the marvelous Italian garden at the lower end of the estate. If the fair chateleine often shared his early breakfast, her seat as a sociological student was to her command.

Barring a few times when Vincenzo gripped the wrong table utensil in his nervousness or dropped his spoon or fork, he did very well at table, and there was no need of dread on the part of his hostess when the elaborate week-end dinner was scheduled.

"It is marvelous what imitative creation we all are!" she observed mentally one morning. She had ordered the early breakfast served on the side porch, and the scent of honeysuckle was all over.

And then Vincenzo, looking up, caught something he did not know just what in her calm gray eyes and promptly proceeded to sport a smug pitcher of cream.

Every night Vincenzo came in from the embryonic Italian gardens to be shaved and dressed by the stolid Englishman provided by his host.

If there were no guests for the evening Bob went a-calling on his neighbors and the fair chateleine found herself spinning in the moonlight beside the pseudo owner of the rakish yellow car, who was taking to luxury and the social career as a duck takes to water.

To be sure, Bob suggested rather heartlessly that the week end party had best be postponed. It is one thing to conduct a social experiment, he remarked, and another to explain it when the experimenter was a charming young woman. And the experimented one—well, there was no use talking! Vincenzo had proved no slouch!

And on the evening of the sixth day Bob came home from the city late. Dinner had been served. The porch was deserted.

No, Miss Darnton and Mr. Pantozzi were not out motoring. The gentleman (what nice shades of meaning a stolid faced servant can put into a simple phrase) had gone away in his car alone and Miss Darnton was in her room, quite ill with a headache.

Headache notwithstanding, she burst servant had gone back to the rear of the house. Her face was quite pale. Her eyes shone with unnatural brilliancy from the center of dark circles.

"I've come to acknowledge my defeat, Bob," she said bitterly. "I'll start your tie in the morning, and I wish you would see that Vin—Mr. Pantozzi leaves the house before I start the tie."

"When?" gasped Bob. "What has he done? Eaten peas with a spoon or demanded macaroni sauce?"

Nan leaned wearily against a chair and her mouth drooped.

"It has been a dreadful mistake, Bob. Don't joke about it, dear. Vincenzo—tonight—he has fallen in love with me!"

Bob leaned back in his chair and laughed heartily.

"Which goes to show," he gasped between paroxysms, "that your theory is entirely correct. He fell right into our life, our ways. He is one of us, I don't know a heart free man in our crowd who would not fall in love with you—if he had the opportunities of seeing you in your most charming, womanly moods, as poor Pantozzi has. Don't blame him for that! It's a bad theorist who won't accept the results of her own experiments."

"I didn't think you would take it like this, Bob. I thought the honor of the family—"

Bob bit his lip. "Did he say anything that reflected on the Darnton honor?"

"No-o. He was lovely, but a bit hysterical. He said—well, you know what they all say—that I was the one woman—that he was unworthy of me—that he would not have placed me in such a false position—but he should love me always—and then he jumped into his car—your car, I mean—and went down the drive like mad."

"He didn't happen to say that he thought it a shame for a pretty girl to lose by trickery the best sunburst Tiffany could put up, did he?"

"Bob," gasped his sister, leaning heavily against the table, "did he know?"

"Everything, my dear! Vincenzo is a chap I met in Paris, the younger son of an old Roman family who have nothing but chapels and marbles and paintings which the state will not permit them to sell, and Vincenzo was studying architecture with the laudable intention of earning a fortune to keep the confounded chapels and relics in the family. I gave him his first commission, and he has retaliated by demanding the hand of my only sister. That's gratitude for you! I'll send him packing in the morning," said Bob, with assumed fierceness. Then suddenly a figure all in white nestled against his broad shoulder; a slim arm crept around his neck.

"I'd rather you wouldn't, Bob. I need a new sunburst worse than anything else in the world, except—"

"A glimpse of Pantozzi's face at this minute—and there's his car!"

Artemus Ward's Accomplishment.

On the occasion of Artemus Ward's professional visit to London, which occurred not long before his death, J. E. Preston Muddock says in his book, "Pages From an Adventurous Life," that the American humorist's advertisements of his "show" were as full of funny surprises as the lectures themselves. One that tickled the general public was this:

Artemus Ward delivered Lectures Before All the Crowned Heads of Europe ever thought of delivering lectures.

And an excerpt from his lecture on "Drawing" is quoted by Mr. Muddock as a particularly delightful bit.

"At a very tender age I could draw on wood. When a mere child I once drew a small cart load of raw turnips over a wooden bridge. It was a raw morning. The people of the village recognized me. They said it was a raw turnip drawing. That shows how faithfully I had copied nature. I drew their attention to it, so you see there was a lot of drawing in it."

"The villagers, with the wonderful discernment peculiar to villagers, said I had a future before me. As I was walking backward when I made my drawing, I replied that I thought my future must be behind me."

Make Report.

R. J. McCleary, Frank Rodgers and T. B. Craig, viewers appointed on a bridge over Hunter's fork of Wheeling creek on the line between Washington and Greene counties, have filed their report, stating that in their opinion the bridge is necessary, and that the expense of erecting one would be attended with more expense than it is reasonable that the adjoining townships should bear.

The location selected is where the public highway leading from Ackleys and Majorsville crosses the creek on the land of J. C. McKeerrihan in West Riley township, Washington county, and land of Newton Dreamer in Richhill township, Greene county. A plot of the location which shows the change in the public highway deemed necessary to make the proper approach is attached.

Trivial Cause of a Bloody War.

In the year 1654 a Polish nobleman became obnoxious to the laws of his country by reason of his having committed a crime. He fled to Sweden, whereupon John Casimir, king of Poland, wrote to Charles Gustavus, king of Sweden, demanding the surrender of the criminal. The king of Sweden on reading the dispatch noticed that his own name and titles were followed by two "et ceteras," while the name of the king of Poland was followed by three. The missing "et cetera" so enraged the king of Sweden that he at once declared war against Poland. The war was carried on with great bitterness until 1660, when a peace was signed at Oliva, near Danzig. A contemporary writer (Kochowsky) poured out his lamentations on the war in these terms: "How dear has this 'et cetera' been to us! With how many lives have these two potentates paid for these missing eight letters! With what streams of blood has the failure of a few drops of ink been avenged!"

A Horse's Toe Nails.

Few persons realize that a horse's hoof is really the same thing as the toe nails of human beings or of animals having toes. The horn of a hoof grows just as a toe nail does. The hoof grows more rapidly in unshod horses than in those wearing shoes, and it grows faster in horses which are well groomed and well fed. But on an average the horn grows about a third of an inch a month. Hind hoofs grow faster than fore hoofs. The toe of the hoof being the longest part, it takes longer for the horn to grow down there than at the heel. For instance, the toe will grow entirely down in from eleven to thirteen months, while the heel will grow down in from three to five months. As the new horn grows out any cracks or defects in the old gradually work down to where they can be cut off, just as with human finger nails you can watch the progress of a bruise from the roof to the tip.—New York Sun.

"Fine," he cried—"a mountain and seashore resort in one!"
Herewith he started to build a summer hotel.—New York Sun.

Far Fields Are Greener.

A boy always brags of what he will do when he's a man.
And when he becomes a man he always boasts of what he did when he was a boy.—Pick-Me-Up.
